

Storytellers

Welcome to Storytellers. No matter what your discipline, a creative is a storyteller at heart. But sometimes there are mental, physical and life barriers in the way of those creatives fulfilling their goals. We designed Storytellers to allow a regular time where creatives can sit down together and share their work, giving them access to a trusted first audience to test new projects on, and a goal to aim for to have new work available to share. We hope that this will allow everyone involved to carve out more time in their lives for productive creativity. Sessions will mostly consist of creatives sharing what they have been working on recently and requesting specific feedback to push them to their next level of skill. During quieter weeks there will be time for everyone to work on their creative projects together. We encourage anyone who joins us to be open minded in this creative space where we will all tackle the creative process together.
